Martin Luther King Jr. Day
Monday, January 19, 2026

Martin Luther King Jr. Day reminds us why visionary leadership and solid planning are vital. Dr. King showed us that clear goals and teamwork can turn dreams into reality. Reflect on his leadership and think about how we, as project leaders, can learn from his success.

Exploring AI Integration in Project Management | Call for Research Volunteers

In a one-time, 45-60 minute interview, participants will be asked to discuss their experiences using AI within project management contexts.

This qualitative research study examines how project management professionals are integrating artificial intelligence (AI) into project monitoring and control workflows. As AI-driven tools, as predictive analytics, automated dashboards, and risk forecasting, become increasingly prevalent in project environments, the study seeks to understand how these technologies are applied in practice, the challenges professionals encounter during implementation, and the strategies that support effective adoption.
